

Brand naming options

Commercial name for a UK / EU / US FPL companion — must signal planning + gameweek decisions, avoid incumbent collisions, and work as a mobile app brand.

Current working title: FPL Squad Viewer — too generic; overlaps “viewer” positioning with LiveFPL / official app.

Naming criteria

Criterion	Weight	Notes
Distinct vs competitors	High	Avoid: Team, Scout, Review, Fix, Hub, Focal, Plan, Lab, Gameweek (taken)
Signals product category	High	Planning, squad, deadline, gameweek edge — not betting / DFS
Pronounceable in EN	High	UK, US, EU English speakers
App Store searchable	Medium	“FPL” optional in subtitle, not always in brand
Domain / social	Medium	.com or .app; @handle available (verify before legal)
Trademark risk	Medium	Stay clear of Premier League / “Fantasy Premier League” in primary mark

Names to avoid (competitor collision)

Name pattern	Conflict
FPL Team / Team	fpl.team — direct
Scout	Fantasy Football Scout
Review	FPL Review
Fix	Fantasy Football Fix
Hub	Fantasy Football Hub
Focal / fpl.page	FPL Focal
Plan FPL / FPL Planner	Plan FPL, fplplanner.app
FPL Lab	fpl-lab.com
FPL Gameweek	Live dashboard app
Squad Viewer	Generic; undifferentiated

Shortlist (scored /10)

Rank	Name	Score	Positioning	Pros	Risks
1	Squadpath	8.5	Your path through the season — transfers, fixtures, review	Unique in FPL space; short; good app icon (path + pitch)	Does not say “FPL” — use subtitle “Fantasy Premier League companion”
2	Deadlineroom	8.0	Where you make pre-deadline decisions	Emotional hook; clear weekly ritual	Slightly long; “room” metaphor may feel niche
3	Pitchplan	7.8	Plan on the pitch — literal to UI	Matches pitch layout; easy SEO “pitch plan FPL”	Near “Plan FPL” — keep distinct styling
4	Transferbench	7.5	Bench + transfers — planner-first	Clear for FPL natives	Underplays review / live rank
5	Clarity XI	7.4	Clarity for your starting XI	Premium feel; ties to PRED-10 “explain” story	“XI” may confuse casuals
6	Matchweek Edge	7.2	Edge each gameweek	Investor-friendly; competitive tone	“Gameweek” crowded; longer name
7	Squadsignal	7.0	Signals for your squad (prices, xPts, rivals)	Modern SaaS tone	Abstract; less football texture
8	Fixturefall	6.5	Fixture-led planning	Unique	Awkward to say; negative “fall” connotation

Recommended direction

Primary recommendation: Squadpath
Brand: Squadpath
App Store subtitle: Fantasy Premier League planner & gameweek review
One-liner: Plan your squad path from deadline to deadline.

Runner-up: Deadlineroom

Better if marketing emphasises pre-deadline anxiety and weekly habit vs season-long narrative.

Naming architecture

Element	Example (Squadpath)
Consumer brand	Squadpath
Legal entity	Squadpath Ltd (UK) or existing dev entity
Product tiers	Squadpath Free · Squadpath Premium · Squadpath Pro
Domain candidates	squadpath.com · squadpath.app · getsquadpath.com
Social	@squadpath · @squadpath_fpl

App Store compliance note

Apple/Google typically require clarity that the app is unofficial and not affiliated with the Premier League. Use footer copy: “Unofficial Fan App — not affiliated with the Premier League or Fantasy Premier League.” Keep “FPL” in metadata keywords sparingly; avoid it in the primary logo wordmark if PL counsel flags it.

Next steps before commit

1. Domain + Twitter/X + Instagram handle availability check (manual).
2. UK IPO / EUIPO quick trademark search on top 2 names.
3. User test: speak "Squadpath" vs "Deadlineroom" to 5 FPL managers — recall after 24h.
4. Rename repo/product strings in a dedicated change (out of scope here).

Product UI (live app) — wordmark should match pitch-first, modern tone.

Collision check June 2026: no major product found for Squadpath or Deadlineroom; FPL Lab exists — avoid "Lab". FPL Gameweek app exists — avoid "Gameweek" as primary brand.
